New Debt Adjustment Act Now Law in Alberta

With the proclamation of the 1933 Debt Adjustment Act, which went into effect June 1, the process of settling the financial difficulties of farmers, house owners, and merchants in Alberta, takes on several new aspects. Simultaneously the act of two years ago is amended at the last session of legislature, are both repealed.

The new act now going into operation will be administered by a debt adjustment board of three members, which has already begun to function. Under the plan decided at its organization meeting last week, the members of the board will divide their labors. Ben S. Plummer giving special attention to the Edmonton office and L. P. Clary, K.C., to the Calgary office, with Chairman W. Loree sharing his time between the two.

This board is itself one of the chief features of the debt adjustment scheme as it will hereafter operate, involving important changes in the general working plan. Either a farmer-debtor or his creditor, seeking adjustment or settlement of a debt, must now apply, as a first step, to the adjustment board, which will confer with and advise either or both of them in an effort to bring about an amicable arrangement for the payment of the indebtedness.

It is provided that no creditor can bring suit or action without a permit in writing from the board, and this feature of the new act constitutes one of its most significant departures from the procedure previously followed.

Rates or taxes of a statutory nature and debts owing to hospitals for service rendered are excepted from the scope of the adjustment scheme.

Resident home owners elsewhere than on farms are for the first time included within the scheme and may not be foreclosed or otherwise proceeded against without the board's consent.

Merchants are also taken under the protection of the act, Part 2 of which is entirely devoted to their case, with provision for the appointment of official referees to adjust the difficulties between such debtors and their creditors. As to the general modus operandi of the debt adjustment scheme, the same plan will be followed in future as in the original act, involving the issue of certificates to debtors, the fixing of instalment payments, the appropriation of crop or other assets and their distribution to creditors and the exemption of necessary living allowances. In all these points the board, which is declared to be "a body public and corporate," will be the authority.

Considerable importance is attached to the fact that hospital accounts do not come within the scope of the act as do ordinary accounts. An amendment to this effect was approved by a large majority in the house when the bill was under discussion, and debts arising from hospital services will therefore be collectable without reference to the debt adjustment board.

In support of the provision thus excepting hospitals from the adjustment scheme it was held that they are now supported in part by government and municipal grants it would not be good policy to make more difficult the collection of accounts owing them by individuals.

Finding it almost impossible to refuse either service or credit, the hospitals said they should not be handicapped in collecting from those able to pay, and this view of the situation was accepted by the house. Hospital accounts will accordingly not have protection under the adjustment law of the province.

Facts of Vital Importance to Owners of Motor Vehicles

Probably no Act passed by the Government respecting motor vehicles is more important to motor vehicle owners or will have such far reaching consequences as that just authorized by the Alberta Provincial Government under The Motor Vehicle Insurance Act and The Vehicle and Highway Traffic Act, and effective June 1st, 1933.

(a) A Deposit of Money or Securities to the amount or value of $10,000.
Who is affected?
The word Motor Vehicle applies to private cars, taxis, trucks, motor cycles, etc.

Licence Remains Suspended
Such licence and registration shall remain suspended until proof shall be given of the owner's financial responsibility for future motor vehicle accidents.

Suspension of Licence for Failure to Satisfy Judgment
The Minister has the power also to suspend the driver's licence and the registration of every motor vehicle registered in the name of a person who within thirty days fails to satisfy the final judgment rendered against him in an accident involving the death or injury to another or damage to property of another in excess of $100.

Licence Remains Suspended
It is most important to notice that the licence and registration shall remain suspended until the judgment has been satisfied and the person gives proof of his financial responsibility for future accidents. This may mean that unless a driver carries an insurance policy he may never be able to pay off the liability and thus be permanently debarred from driving.

Amount of Proof
The amount of proof of financial responsibility required is:
(a) For damages by reason of the death or personal injury to one person in any one accident, $5,000, exclusive of interest and costs, and $10,000, exclusive of interest and costs, for the death or personal injury to two or more persons.
(b) For damage in excess of $100 to property of others, $1,000, exclusive of interest and costs.

Manner of Proof
Proof of financial responsibility may be given in any one of the alternative forms:

(a) The written certificate or certificate of insurance from a Motor Vehicle Insurance Company, filed with the Minister, that it has issued to or for the benefit of the insured, a Motor Vehicle Liability Policy.

(b) A Surety Bond.
(c) A deposit of money or securities to the amount or value of $10,000.

Who is affected?
The word Motor Vehicle applies to private cars, taxis, trucks, motor cycles, etc.

A LIFE OF FAITH

The more one sees of farming in this country the more he has to admire the men and women who are engaged in the industry. They surely live a life of faith. With the certainty that the price they will receive for their products will not pay the costs incurred they go cheerfully about their work. They take all manner of risks—drought, hail, grasshoppers, rust, soil depletion they sell eggs, butter and other products at a low price—yet they remain optimistic, do their best to keep churches and schools open and pay their debts in kind when they have the opportunity. These are the people who deserve encouragement. Fortunately the conviction is growing that the welfare of all Canada depends upon the prosperity of the farmers.—St. Mary's (Ont.) Journal-Argus.

A campaign against the grasshopper menace in southern Alberta was begun during the week by the department of agriculture.

THEN YOU'RE HARD UP

You're not hard up when your purse is flat,
And your trousers frayed like an old door mat.
You're not hard up when your bills fall due
And you haven't a dollar to see you through.
You're not hard up till you see the day
That you haven't a cheerful word to say.

You're not hard up when your coin is gone,
And you whistle a tune as you journey on,
And you walk the street while others ride,
And your pockets have nought but your hands inside.
That's not being broke, you may depend,
You're not hard up while you have a friend.

But you are hard up and in sorry way,
If you haven't a cheerful word to say.
If nothing on earth appeals to you,
And you can't see a charm in skies of blue.
And you are hard up if you've reached the end,
And can say in truth that you have no friend.

In dollars and cents don't count your wealth,
But sum it up in good friends and health,
In the little bits that call you "Dad,"
Who, when you're coming, are, oh so glad.
If you haven't a soul to love or care,
You are hard up though a millionaire.

W.C.T.U. PRIZE ESSAY

The following is the winning essay for Grade V, in the recent contest conducted by the W.C.T.U.:

Why I Admire Daniel

(By Eleanor Roraph)
Daniel was a true and faithful boy. He was honored very much by the king and people. At one time he was given from the king's table wine and food, but he would not take it. He only wanted plain food. Soon after he was to answer some questions for the king. He did not answer them with his own mind, but God put the answers into his head because his belief was so strong. At another time some of the king's wise men made a law that anyone who prayed to any God would be thrown into a lion's den. This did not stop Daniel, still he went three times a day to pray to his God. He was thrown into the lions den but not on the king's will. God sent an angel to shut the lions' mouths so that they did not touch Daniel. Daniel bowed that God had the strength to save him. He also would not turn away from his true God, because it was the law, even if he would be put into the lion's den. He had no fear because God was with him.

Arithmetic

This boy has $20. He smokes with his $20. He buys cigarettes $17.50, matches $2.50.
This boy has $20. He does not smoke. With his money he buys a pair of pants $7.50, a pair of shoes $8.25, a pair of socks $1, a cap $2.15, a tie 50c, a shirt $2.15.

Citizenship

Give three reasons why such drinks as cider, beer and wine should not be taken.
1. We should not use cider, beer or wine because they contain alcohol which is poison. Some children drink these poisons when they are supposed to grow up they do not.
2. The drinks also cause a nervous breakdown and a shaky hand. People who drink can never be good athletes. These drinks make a person nervous, which often ruins his health. It may cause many ailments.

Also those drinks cause a person to have a weak conscience. This causes them to have a quick temper. Bad habits are also caused from this.

Swearing is heard from people who drink wine, beer or cider.

Spelling
1. When fruit juices ferment they contain alcohol, which is poison.

2. Young people who refuse to smoke cigarettes, or take cider, beer or wine, have moral courage and strength of mind.

3. If girls want to keep their looks and complexions, they will not use alcoholic drinks or cigarettes.
4. The poison of alcohol is worse than the poison of war.
5. Girls who smoke are only smart enough to deceive themselves.

DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY WHEN VEHICLE OVERTURNS

A truck driver, whose name has not been determined, escaped injury when the 1929 Chevrolet truck he was driving piled up in the ditch about six miles west of Camrose on the highway, between 6 and 7 p.m. last evening. The accident was caused through the drag link, a part of the steering apparatus, becoming detached from the end of the steering column. The truck went completely out of control, and after swerving into the ditch and running the front wheels up an eight-foot bank, fell over on its top. The right front wheel, the right door, and the frame on the right side were broken. The driver was able to crawl out of the cab without assistance.—Camrose Canadian.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Uruquai, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Finland, Hungary, Denmark and other nations have greatly reduced the hazards of child birth. The United States ranks twenty-second in the preservation of the lives of its new mothers. The reason for this is that the great mass of women in modern circumstances do not have trained care at this time. Of the 16,000 women who die in maternity every year in the United States, 10,000 of these fatalities are preventable.

The woman who is expecting a baby should call on a capable physician as soon as she knows her condition. The physician should give her a medical examination, observation, care and instruction from the day of her first call until she resumes her regular activities and is able to care for her new baby, at least a month after the baby is born. What a pity it is that so many helpless little children are left motherless every year, and all unnecessarily!

PLAN LONG FLIGHT

Some time this summer James A. and Mrs. Amy Millson, famous British husband-and-wife aviators, will hop from Roosevelt Field, New York, on an attempt to set up a new long distance record by flying non-stop to Bagdad or beyond.

If they make Bagdad they will have beaten by some 700 miles the record of 5,540 miles established in February of this year by the British airmen, Nicolson and Gayford, when they flew from England to South Africa.

Roosevelt Field was chosen by the Millsons as the starting point for their first dual aerial adventure because it is the only suitable airport having a concrete runway.

The laden weight of their machine will be such that experts have advised the flying couple that there is no aerodrome in England having sufficient length and firmness for taking off purposes.

Their machine, now in process of construction in England, will be shipped in parts to New York and will be re-assembled at Roosevelt Field. It is a twin-engine monoplane of the DeHavilland "Dragon" type, and would normally accommodate six passengers, pilot and baggage.

Three vast cylindrical tanks, placed so close together that they resemble the boiler of a giant locomotive behind the pilot's seat, replace the passenger's seats.

Only one pilot's seat is provided in the forward cockpit, with just enough elbow room for the Millsons to change over the controls of the machine. There is a hatchway only one foot in height to enable them to crawl from the cockpit, underneath the tanks, to a tiny cabin in the tail of the machine.

The gasoline capacity will enable the machine to fly up to 6,000 miles in average conditions. With a tailwind during parts of the journey the 8,000-mile limit should be exceeded. Other details regarding the machine and its equipment are being kept secret, but it is not believed that the aeroplane will carry radio.

The young bride said sadly, "Men are too mean for anything." "What's the trouble now?" asked her best friend. "Why, I asked John for a motor car today, and he said that I must be content with the splendid carriage that Nature had given me!"

Relief costs in Edmonton netted for April just over $10,000 a day it was stated by city hall officials. This was a slight drop from the same period a year ago.

Could Not Lie Down to Sleep She Was So Short of Breath

Mrs. P. J. Chornoff, Shoreacres, B.C., writes: "I had been so troubled with shortness of breath I could not lie down to sleep. I couldn't do any hard work, or climb the stairs, and had nervous and smothering feelings, and became very weak. I tried all kinds of medicine, but could not get any relief, until after I had taken three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and since then I have felt better in every way."

75 cents wheat contract got nothing on me

(By Betty Webster)

Everyone knows from marriage license bureau statistics that there are brides in each month of the year. But somehow June seems to have a sort of monopoly on them in song and story anyway. And, when there are no brides there must be showers and other sorts of parties galore.

Sometimes it is hard for the harried hostess to think of enough clever entertainment to go round.

Not long ago, I attended a shower for a bride-to-be which the hostess called a "Balloon party." It was very amusing—so I know you'd like to hear about it.

Instead of flowers, the room was decorated with vases filled with balloons and a cute little balloon man was painted on the tally cards which were given to the guests as they arrived. Brides were pinned on tables covered with black cloth on which were stenciled clusters of balloons. Each table was supplied with a dish filled with round candies to carry out the balloon idea.

Balloons Attached to Gifts
Before refreshments were served, the hostess removed all the tables but one which was placed in front of the guest of honor. Then the gifts were carried in and to each package had been tied a gas-filled balloon which floated to the ceiling as each handle was opened. It was most effective.

The refreshments consisted of ice cream molded in balls, round cakes daintily leed and var-colored patties. Filberts, shelled and salted were passed and feed lemonade was served in tall colored glasses.

The first and second prizes for the bridge game were a round bottle filled with bath crystals, and two circular handkerchiefs.

This was one of the loveliest parties I ever attended and the idea can be worked out successfully by anyone. Try it.

For the Porch and Sun Parlor
Straw and grass rugs to spread underfoot these bright days are unusually decorative this season. From round mats to large square and oval rugs which will cover whole floors they are uniformly good looking.

To Keep Fudge From Boiling Over
Grease top of kettle in which fudge is cooked and it will not boil over.

Care of Silk Stockings
Wash silk stockings in a lukewarm sudsy water which will cover whole feet. It is perspiration that rots them. (Copyright.)

Kenneth and William McLean, charged with the murder of W. J. Parsille, Mannville, were committed to a magistrate's hearing at Vegreville to trial at that place on June 20.

SEARCH FOR HEAVEN

Once upon a time, runs an old story, a number of Eskimos set out from the country which had been their ancestral home to look for heaven. For some reason not stated, they turned their backs southward and after journeying many moons and surviving the country carefully they returned northward again. To their enquiry their friends announced sadly that heaven certainly not lie in that direction. In the South they had found a hopeless and barren country, no seas for fish, no whales for blubber, no polar bears to provide skins for clothing, no snow or ice to provide walls for their comfortable houses, no oil for their lamps, no bone for their weapons; only dreary forests and hissing plains and animals that could never capture by any possible contrivances. No, wherever heaven was, it certainly was not in the south.

By the side of this might be set another tale of an Indian tribe which also longed for heaven and sent an exploring party northward to seek for it. And the party travelled many moons and returned in disappointment. Heaven, the explorers reported,

Uniform Game Laws

More uniform game laws and game fees for the prairie provinces were urged at a conference of game officials of the three governments at Edmonton last week.

Swine Survey

A more effective system of obtaining information on hog population and hog marketings in the province was a subject upon which the week of representatives of the federal live stock branch, the experimental farms, the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the University Agricultural College, Alberta has now come to be second only to one-third of Canada's total marketings.

A Feather for Lethbridge

According to a recent survey by the Canadian Council on Child Welfare, the city of Lethbridge, Alberta, leads Canada in high percentage of school attendance, among 79 centres surveyed. The city's non-attendance record is 2.2 per cent, while other Alberta cities are very close behind.

Mounted Police Anniversary

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police formerly the Goutta Northwest Mounted, celebrated its diamond jubilee in May, the force being established just 60 years ago. The first post in Alberta was established in 1874 on the site of the present town of Macleod.

Family Settlement

Unemployed families to the number of about 110 have been settled on land of their own this spring in the province, through the efforts of the land settlement committee of the province. Most of these have come from Calgary and Edmonton.

Trout for Cold Lake

As announced recently, Cold Lake, on the north-eastern boundary of the province, is to be stocked with speckled trout this spring, and this week 86,220 fry from the hatcheries at Banff were shipped and were liberated on Tuesday, under the direction of the Superintendent of the Banff hatchery, J. E. Martin. The undertaking is a joint effort of the federal fisheries department and the provincial fisheries division of the Lands and Mines Department under direction of R. T. Rodd. The introduction of this trout into Cold Lake will not make any change necessary in the fishing season in that lake, as the trout spawn at the same season as the lake trout.

Summer School Again

The University of Alberta Department of Education have decided again to hold the usual summer session for teachers at the University. The school opens July 2nd and the attendance reached almost to the two thousand mark. This year the school will include two courses in supervision, the first having been held last year with 50 registered.

Women's Farm Week

The usual women's summer farm week will be held this summer at Olds School of Agriculture from July 31 to August 4. The usual meet at Vermilion School will this year be combined with that at Olds.

Alberta's Improved Hog Record

The steady improvement in the quality of Alberta hogs is strongly indicated in a survey recently completed by Provincial Agricultural officials. The record shows that in 1930, 628,335 hogs were marketed from this province, of which 61.3 per cent reached the top grade as "selects." In 1931 was not in the North. There they found a country bare of antelope and buffalo. There was no food to be had, no skins for their tepees or mocassins, no wood for their fires, no grass for their horses. Only moss and snow and blocks of ice and lakes of bitter water with animals they could not reach or kill; only interminable days when the insects were a torment and nights without end when the cold gnawed like hunger. No, wherever it might be, heaven was not in the north.

The search for a way out of the prevailing depression is like the aborigines' search for heaven. So much depends on one's preconceptions and prejudices and wants. So much depends on what one is looking for. Perhaps, if we would only look in the right direction, the condition we know as prosperity is not so very far away after all. All the elements of it are very likely with us, if we only knew how to turn them to account.—Vancouver Province.

TRUE TO-DA-Y

The following verses were found among the files of one of our contemporaries in an edition of 40 years ago. It goes to "prove" the unchangeableness of human nature.

The wind bloweth,
The farmer soweth,
And the Lord knoweth
That we are in need of our dues.
So come a-runnin',
Ere we go gunnin',
This thing of dunnin',

THE BEST OF YOUR KIND
If you can't be a pine on the top of a hill,
Be a scrub in the valley—but be
The best little scrub by the side of the hill;
Be a bush if you can't be a tree,
If you can't be a bush, be a bit of the grass,
And some highway hawker make
If you can't be a muskie, then just be a bass—
But the liveliest bass in the lake!

We can't all be captains; we've got to be crew;
There's something for all if you're here,
There's big work to do and there's lesser to do.

And the task we must do is near.
If you can't be a highway, then just be a trail;
If you can't be the sun, be a star;
It isn't by size that you win or you fall—
Be the best of whatever you are.

I was a hard-fought bitterly contested match. Grads went into the lead shortly after the game started, when they were out in front by a score of 3-0. Then the mighty sharpshooters of the invaders, with everything in their favor, as they usually play under girls' rules, steadily overhauled the Grads and when the first period ended the Grads were down 27-12.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

With only a few exceptions it is not necessary for citizens to go beyond the town limits to secure any article or service which may be required. But, how many townpeople are aware of this fact? Are we entirely justified in losing patience too quickly with those who, when in the market for some article or product, rush off to the city and afterwards announce to their friends: "I bought so and so in the city, and it only cost me so much. Wasn't that a bargain?" Maybe, then, the purchaser is not altogether to blame. Is it not possible that our merchants have been a little lax? They have good stocks, can give excellent service, all at right prices. But what are they doing about it? Are they afraid that a public announcement of these facts will make it impossible for them to look after the crowd? Why keep the facts obscured in secrecy while out-of-town merchants absorb business by means of modern and concentrated advertising methods? Only last week this town and district was flooded with a four page advertising sheet from a neighboring town, offering our people bargains in many lines. Our business men with a few exceptions have done nothing to counteract this advertising on the part of their more aggressive competitors. Better think this over, Mr. Business Man—Inniskill Province. The same conditions exist in Wetaskiwin, Brer Huckle.

RECORDS CAREFULLY KEPT

"Never has the frontier life of any country been as carefully recorded and as thoroughly documented as the journals of the fur trade posts of the Hudson's Bay Company in Canada," said Douglas MacKay, speaking to the Kinmen's Club of Montreal. "Under the terms of the original royal charter, London, as the head office of the Hudson's Bay Company, remains the repository for all the company's archives, and the gathering of these from the posts and outposts a few years ago resulted in an accumulation of nearly six tons of documents," Mr. MacKay declared. The work of organizing and cataloguing this material has been proceeding under the direction of the company's archivists in London.

At the present time, this vast quantity of historical documents, which is in reality the richest source of material of western and northern Canadian history, is in better shape for the use of accredited historians than ever before.

The Edmonton normal school concluded the year's work Wednesday and closed its doors, in accordance with the government's economy policy, until better times return.

SEEDING GRASES AND LEGUMES WITHOUT A NURSE CROP

(Experimental Farms Note)
The most important conclusion originating from forage crop investigations conducted at the Experimental Station, Lacombe, is that so-called nurse crops are responsible for most of the failures to secure stands of grasses and legumes. It has been shown that seeding grasses and legumes about June 20 without a nurse crop eliminates many risks from weed competition, insect damage while in the seedling stage, damage due to soil drifting, and also reduces the risk of losses due to a shortage of moisture during the development of the crop, caused by the nurse crop.

The cultural practices recommended for seeding without a nurse crop include after harvest and early spring cultivation to promote the germination of weed seeds and conserve moisture. It is suggested that the land should be ploughed as soon as possible after spring grain seeding is completed, worked down into a fine seed bed and kept well cultivated until seeded. If sufficient moisture is available and tillage is given every week or ten days, a number of successive weed crop will be germinated and destroyed before the grass and legume seed is sown during the last week in June.

As a rule summer rains have started before this seeding time, thus putting an end to any soil drifting. Serious outcrops epidemics have usually run their course by the latter part of June; in fact, the only remaining risk is the possibility of a shortage of moisture to develop the stand. This risk can be reduced by delaying seeding until there is sufficient moisture in the soil to ensure a quick and uniform germination of the seed.

The small grass and legume seeds should be drilled about one to one and one half inches deep during the last week of June. Grasses may be seeded as late as July 15. When seeded in this way on land prepared in the manner outlined grass and legume seed will germinate and make a good stand in less than a week. The young plants will make such rapid development that they will hold their own against weeds.

There is a great temptation to pasture or cut for feed the growth that develops the first year. It seldom is wise to remove this first growth as it is needed by the young seedlings to convert the material absorbed by the

"Fresh from the Gardens"

Canadian Garden Service

(By Gordon Lindsay Smith)

Still Plenty of Time

While it is important to get a portion of seed in early in order to stretch out the season as long as possible, this stretching can also be carried out at the other end of the business. Incidentally for those persons who start to sow their garden too soon there are a dozen people who do not continue sowing late enough. In practically every section of Canada it is possible to continue planting such things as beans, spinach, radish, lettuce, carrots, beets and corn, right up to July, and if well started plants can be obtained, this late work may include tomatoes, cabbage and cauliflower, too. Of course where the whole garden is put in late, say after the middle of June, it would be well to hurry along a portion of it at least with quick acting commercial fertilizer and if possible, water. Cultivation, of course is essential.

Commercial Fertilizer

Commercial fertilizers offer a good substitute for well rotted manure, and to hasten many of the leafy vegetables along some of these chemical manures are almost indispensable. For the average garden, a good "complete" or "mixed" commercial fertilizer is advised. All of these are sold with the formulae attached and one should insist on at least four per cent nitrogen, eight per cent phosphorus, and from four to eight per cent of potash. Technically, this is known as a 4-8-4 to a 4-5-5. The effect of nitrogen on the growth of a plant is more quickly marked than that of either of the other two elements. Nitrogen has a direct influence on the development of the leafy parts of the plant and imparts a deep green color to the leaves. It is, therefore, very valuable for those leafy types of vegetables and also as a tonic in transplanting all vegetables. With late-maturing sorts, such as tomatoes and corn, nitrogen should be applied in the early stages only. Phosphorous fortilizers are usually found to be valuable for growing vegetables on practically all soils. This element hastens maturity, increases root development and builds up resistance to disease. Potash, the third element in commercial fertilizer, is essential to starch formation, and green plants and root crops particularly need it. But one must be careful in applying commercial fertilizer as it is liable to injure foliage or seed if it comes in direct contact. In the small garden the safest plan is to dissolve in water and simply sprinkle along the rows with a watering can. In the case of potatoes, tomatoes, corn and similar vegetables, a scant handful is dug in beneath each hill, care being taken to see that the fertilizer does not come in direct contact with the seed. With beans, peas, carrots, lettuce and such things the fertilizer is applied at the time of seeding as a final dressing at the rate of about a small handful to the yard of row.

Mushrooms That Are Safe

Mushrooms can be easily and safely produced from spawn, and huge crops in comparison to the uncertain supply available under natural conditions are secured. They will grow practically all the year round in some dark cellar, free from frost, or they can also be grown outdoors in boxes or special beds during the summer and early fall. When ordering spawn from your seed merchant, ask for the special "mushroom" spawn. Beds are made with fresh stable manure which, after heating, are covered with the mushroom spawn broken in pieces about three inches square. The spawn starts to run through the manure below, a layer of soil is added and on top of this bed is covered with about eight or ten inches of straw or litter which should be sprinkled with water during hot weather. It is important to have manure and soil tramped down firmly, and to not allow the litter on top to settle or mat. Some people get fair results from putting the spawn among potatoes, but since larger crops are produced when more care is taken, a bed will produce mushrooms for about two months.

Successional Plantings

Doctors have finally convinced the public of the vital necessity of green things in the diet at all times and experienced gardeners have demonstrated that it is quite possible to produce these green things for at least six months of the year. The whole secret is to make successive plantings of the same vegetables, starting just as soon as the ground is fit to work, with the peas, spinach, radish, cress and lettuce, continuing with these about three times at intervals of ten days and gradually adding carrots, beets, beans, head lettuce, cabbage, corn lettuce, chive, cabbages, tomatoes, egg plants, lima beans, all types of corn with something going in right up to July.

OUTDOOR SPORTS

(By Dr. William J. Scholes)
Of all nations the English-speaking peoples are the most devoted to sports. They love the great outdoors and all it offers above everything else. And this devotion has paid big dividends in the superlative mental and physical vigor they possess. Among the outdoor sports golf is rapidly moving into first place in popular favor, and is destined to supersede baseball and cricket as our national games. Thousands, who a few years ago were in the bleachers, are now on the links. And there is a reason—no other outdoor sport can approach golf in the training of mind and body that it affords. Swimming probably comes next in popularity and there is no more healthful sport, provided one refrains from diving into two feet of water. From the "old swimmin' hole" of the past generation to the marble pools of today, swimming has been the great summer pastime. There is nothing more invigorating and rejuvenating than a good swim. Some spoil its good effects, however, by going into the water too soon after eating, staying in too long, and other indiscretions.

Baseball Always Enjoyable
No discussion of summer sports is complete without including that most popular of all games—baseball. There is nothing more diverting and exhilarating than a snappy baseball game. It is full of action, and no one ever gets too old to enjoy it. I am speaking, of course, of playing, not watching a game. The increasing use of "indoor" balls contributes something towards making the game less hazardous—people have been killed by a blow on the head with the official hard ball. But the percentage is so small as to be negligible. • Perhaps the most important feature connected with outdoor sports is one's selection of that form best suited to his particular needs and requirements. Football, for example, is a game should indulge in golf rather than tennis.

Many persons feel that they get enough exercise in connection with their regular occupation, but that

Health is half of success

Few men achieve their goal without vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation. It dulls energy, often causes headaches, sleeplessness. It takes the vim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's All-Bran supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoons daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers.

on the highways of this province due directly to beer drinking. Mrs. White, Provincial President of the W.C.T.U., in a recent address given in Wetaskiwin, made a wonderful appeal to the women of this province, of this town, to follow up the home training and make our province a safer place for our boys and girls when they leave the home, by standing as a solid wall against the beer room.

Father O'Brien had preached on "Married Life and Its Duties," and an old Irishwoman said to her friend as they came out, "Sure it's a fine sermon his reverence gave us this mornin'." "It was indeed," the other woman replied, "an it's me that's wishin' I knew as little about the matter as he does."

"Does your wife know that I am coming home to dinner with you?" asked a citizen here of a friend as they were on the way to the latter's house. "Well, she ought to," was the reply, "I argued with her for nearly an hour about it."

Troubled With Indigestion Pains In Stomach After Meals

The pains and distress caused from indigestion or dyspepsia may be removed by the use of B.B.B. It tones up and restores the stomach to normal condition so that it digests food without causing discomfort. Mrs. C. O. Chamberlain, Sherbrooke, Que., writes:—"I had been troubled with indigestion and pains in my stomach after meals. My mother recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got a bottle and after taking it was greatly relieved. I recommend it for indigestion, or any form of stomach disorder."

OLD MEDICAL PRACTICE

Those who believe that the ancient medical practice of "blood-letting" by leeches is ante-dated may be surprised to learn that more than 1,000 leeches are imported weekly by air mail from France for up-to-date London hospitals.

These leeches are gathered from pools in the south of France. They are packed in light wooden boxes containing mud and damp moss. When they reach their destination they are placed in a tank of clean water, where they remain, unfed, until their use is required.

STRANGE CHURCH OFFERING

Fifty muskrat skins on a collection plate in church.

This was the unusual sight witnessed by persons who made up the little congregation of the Anglican mission at Moose Lake recently.

Moose Lake is a trading post about 65 miles down the Saskatchewan River from The Pas.

The rats were placed on the plate by Indians upon their first attendance at church, following the spring rat hunt.

At present, rats are the medium of exchange in the remote outpost. They range in value from 30 to 40 cents, according to size and condition, and fur market quotations.

The Moose Lake mission is presided over by a lay reader from a theological school. There are two families of whites at Moose Lake, besides two score Indian families. They send $100 per year to the Church of England, and keep the mission building in repair.

PROFITS FROM PENNIES

The British Royal Mint earns startling profits from the actual making of money, states a writer in Pearson's, who adds that of course silver and bronze coins are not worth anything approaching their face value. Bronze coins are made of an alloy containing ninety-five per cent copper, and costing today about sixty-five pounds per ton.

A ton of bronze will make 107,520 pennies, or four hundred and forty-eight pounds. So pennies cost about twopence a dozen.

A shilling contains silver worth about three halfpence.

Work at the Mint is naturally carried out under the strictest supervision in order to avoid waste of "money." A given quantity of metal supplied at the beginning of a day must be accounted for in the evening, either in coin or metal. A certain allowance is made for loss in melting.

Even this, however, is partially recovered, as the old pots which are used for melting, and other appliances, are sold for a good price owing to the amount of silver which they contain.

When the temporary furnaces at Woolwich Arsenal were dismantled a few years ago, it was found that the bricks and flues contained traces of silver. These were sent to the Mint for treatment, and as a result two thousand, four hundred and fifty ounces of pure silver were recovered to be used again.

In fact, the actual profit from the Mint during the past fifty years has been over six hundred and thirty thousand pounds, though in the abnormal war year of 1915 it was nearly four and three-quarter million pounds.

Nowadays financiers make money from money by adopting the quickened means of aerial transport. For gold is international money, and while in transit it earns no interest for its owners.

Therefore, even an hour or two gained in a journey may mean the saving of a whole day's interest. For interest, gold taken from London to Amsterdam by air can be lodged in the Netherlands Bank on the day of despatch, while that sent by boat has to wait until the following morning.

MIGHT BE CALLED EXCLUSIVE

Perhaps the most exclusive and certainly the most unique golf links in Canada is Hudson's Bay at Chesterfield Inlet. It has a membership of four, consisting of two missionaries, a Hudson Bay Company factor and his assistant.

A life membership in this select gathering of golf enthusiasts may be had at a cost of ten polar bear teeth. Still in the process of building, only three holes have been completed, 400, 250 and 300 yards in length, respectively. They are played three times in succession, par for the nine holes being 30.

The problem of greens has been solved by using hard-packed sand from the beach while the tundra moss makes an excellent fairway. Important on the roster of the club are the caddies—four Eskimo boys, one for each member.

THIS HOUSE IS ODD
A curious house—one of the oddest in the world—has been built in New Jersey. In the shape of an elephant, it contains six rooms, which are reached by spiral staircases in the "hind-legs." The howdah on the animal's back is sixty-five feet from the ground.
